FROM THE PASTOR'S HEART

October 11, 2026

Dear brothers and sisters,

Recently, I was invited to a dinner where the host had gone to a great deal of trouble preparing everything. The food was ready, the table was beautifully set, and every place had been prepared. I remember noticing one empty chair. Someone had been invited, someone had been expected, but that person never came. I do not remember much about the meal itself anymore, but for some reason, I still remember that empty chair.

This Sunday, the Word of God gives us the beautiful image of a feast. Isaiah describes the Lord preparing for all peoples "a feast of rich food and choice wines" (cf. Isaiah 25:6-10a). It is a wonderful image of the generosity of God. God does not offer us scraps. He wants to give us life in abundance. He wants to gather his children around his table, remove the veil of sorrow that hangs over humanity, wipe away our tears, and even destroy death itself.

Then, in the Gospel, Jesus tells the story of a king who prepares a wedding feast for his son (cf. Matthew 22:1-14). Everything is ready. The servants are sent out with the message: "Come to the feast." Yet, surprisingly, some people do not come. They have other things to do. One goes to his farm, another to his business. The invitation is generous, the table is ready, but they allow other things to become more important.

I think that can happen to us more easily than we realize. God continues to invite us, but life becomes very busy. There is always another appointment, another responsibility, another worry, another message to answer, another place we need to be. None of these things is necessarily bad. The danger is that we can become so occupied with the things of life that we forget the One who gave us life.

Every Sunday, the bells of the Church are really saying the same thing as the servants in the Gospel: "Come to the feast." Come away for a little while from everything else. Come and listen to the Word of God. Come and place your burdens before the Lord. Come and receive the Body and Blood of Christ. Come and remember who you are and to whom you belong.

I love that the table we approach here points to another table. Isaiah tells us that one day God will "destroy death forever" and "wipe away the tears from every face." Every Eucharist is a small taste of that great feast that awaits us in the Kingdom of Heaven. When we come to Mass, we are not simply fulfilling an obligation. We are accepting an invitation. God has prepared a place for us at his table.

This Sunday, we also have a beautiful example of someone who understood this invitation very well: Saint Carlo Acutis, the newly canonized young saint whose feast day is October 12. We are honoring him in a special way this Sunday with the young people of our Youth Group, who have chosen him as their patron. Carlo had a remarkable love for the Eucharist. He called the Eucharist his "highway to heaven," and he did not want to keep that treasure to himself. He wanted others, especially other young people, to discover what he had discovered: that Jesus is truly present in the Eucharist and is waiting for us there.

I love that about Carlo. He reminds us that the Lord's table is not somewhere we simply come by ourselves; it is a table to which we can invite others. Perhaps there is a young person, a friend, a family member, or someone who has been away from the Church who is simply waiting for an invitation. Carlo shows our young people—and all of us—that we do not have to preach a sermon to bring someone closer to Christ. Sometimes we simply have to say, "Come with me."

That is why I still think about that empty chair from the recent dinner at someone's house. The host had prepared a place, but the person who was invited never came. I think of the Holy Mass. The Lord has prepared a feast for each of us. Let us not leave our place empty. Better still, perhaps this week we can invite someone else to fill a place beside us.

Yours in Christ,

Msgr. "John" Cuong M. Pham

DEL CORAZON DEL PASTOR

11 de October 2026

Queridos hermanos y hermanas,

Hace poco me invitaron a cenar a casa de alguien. El anfitrión se había esmerado mucho en preparar todo. La comida estaba lista, la mesa muy bien puesta y había un lugar preparado para cada invitado. Recuerdo que me llamó la atención una silla vacía. Alguien había sido invitado y lo estaban esperando, pero nunca llegó. Ya no recuerdo muchos detalles de aquella cena, pero, por alguna razón, todavía recuerdo esa silla vacía.

Este domingo, la Palabra de Dios nos presenta la hermosa imagen de un banquete. Isaías nos habla del Señor preparando para todos los pueblos "un festín con platillos suculentos y vinos exquisitos" (cfr. Isaías 25, 6-10a). Es una imagen bellísima de la generosidad de Dios. Dios no nos da las sobras. Él quiere darnos vida en abundancia. Quiere reunir a sus hijos alrededor de su mesa, quitar el velo de tristeza que cubre a la humanidad, secar nuestras lágrimas y hasta destruir la muerte para siempre.

En el Evangelio, Jesús nos cuenta la historia de un rey que prepara el banquete de bodas de su hijo (cfr. Mateo 22, 1-14). Todo está listo. Los criados salen con la invitación: "Vengan al banquete." Sin embargo, algunos no vienen. Tienen otras cosas que hacer. Uno se va a su campo y otro a sus negocios. La invitación está hecha y la mesa está preparada, pero dejan que otras cosas sean más importantes.

Creo que esto también puede pasarnos a nosotros, y más fácilmente de lo que pensamos. Dios sigue invitándonos, pero la vida se nos llena de cosas. Siempre hay otra cita, otra responsabilidad, otra preocupación, otro mensaje que contestar, otro lugar donde tenemos que estar. Nada de eso es necesariamente malo. El peligro está en ocuparnos tanto con las cosas de la vida que terminemos olvidándonos de Aquel que nos dio la vida.

Cada domingo, las campanas de la iglesia nos dicen, de alguna manera, lo mismo que los criados del Evangelio: "Vengan al banquete." Dejen por un momento todo lo demás. Vengan a escuchar la Palabra de Dios. Vengan a poner sus preocupaciones en las manos del Señor. Vengan a recibir el Cuerpo y la Sangre de Cristo. Vengan a recordar quiénes son y a quién pertenecen.

Me encanta pensar que la mesa a la que nos acercamos aquí nos prepara para otra mesa. Isaías nos dice que llegará el día en que Dios "destruirá la muerte para siempre" y "enjugará las lágrimas de todos los rostros". Cada Eucaristía es un anticipo de ese gran banquete que nos espera en el Reino de los Cielos. Cuando venimos a Misa, no estamos simplemente cumpliendo una obligación. Estamos respondiendo a una invitación. Dios ha preparado un lugar para nosotros en su mesa.

Este domingo también tenemos un hermoso ejemplo de alguien que entendió muy bien esta invitación: San Carlo Acutis, el joven santo recientemente canonizado, cuya fiesta se celebra el 12 de octubre. Este domingo lo honraremos de una manera especial con los jóvenes de nuestro Grupo Juvenil, que lo han escogido como su patrono. Carlo tenía un amor extraordinario por la Eucaristía. La llamaba su "autopista al cielo" y no quería quedarse ese tesoro solamente para él. Quería que otros, especialmente los jóvenes, descubrieran lo mismo que él había descubierto: que Jesús está verdaderamente presente en la Eucaristía y que allí nos espera.

Eso es precisamente lo que me gusta tanto de Carlo. Nos recuerda que no venimos a la mesa del Señor solamente para nosotros mismos; también podemos invitar a otros. Tal vez haya un joven, un amigo, un familiar o alguien que se ha alejado de la Iglesia y que simplemente está esperando una invitación. Carlo les enseña a nuestros jóvenes —y también a nosotros— que no hace falta predicar un sermón para acercar a alguien a Cristo. A veces basta con decir: "Ven conmigo."

Por eso sigo pensando en aquella silla vacía de esa cena reciente. El dueño había preparado un lugar, pero la persona invitada nunca llegó. Y eso me hace pensar en la Santa Misa. El Señor ha preparado una fiesta para cada uno de nosotros. No dejemos vacío nuestro lugar. Mejor todavía, esta semana podríamos invitar a alguien para que venga y ocupe un lugar a nuestro lado.

Sinceramente en Cristo,

Mons. "Juan" Cuong M. Pham
