FROM THE PASTOR'S HEART

WHOS IMAGE DO YOU BEAR?

Twenty-Ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time – Year A • Matthew 22:15–21

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

As a young priest, after my first assignment here in the Diocese, I was sent to Rome for further studies. Suddenly, I had to learn a new language, a new culture, and a new way of doing almost everything. One Italian word I learned very quickly was spiccioli—loose change.

Here in America, I rarely think about the coins in my pocket. In Italy, especially in those days, spiccioli were precious. You needed them everywhere. If you handed a shopkeeper a large bill for a small purchase, you might get a look that made you wonder whether you had just committed a serious offense against the Italian Republic! "Non ha spiccioli?"—"Don't you have any change?" I soon learned: never underestimate the spiccioli.

Of course, there is one place where I would not mind seeing us move beyond the spiccioli: the Sunday collection! The smallest denomination in our pocket should not always be our first instinct. Generosity, after all, is one way of saying what—and whom—we value.

That little memory makes me notice something in this Sunday's Gospel: Jesus asks for a coin (cf. Matthew 22:15-21). His enemies have asked him a dangerous question: "Is it lawful to pay the census tax to Caesar or not?" A yes risks appearing to support Roman occupation; a no risks an accusation of rebellion. It is a carefully designed trap.

Jesus asks to see the coin and then asks, "Whose image is this and whose inscription?" "Caesar's," they answer. Jesus replies, "Repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God." Here is where his answer goes much deeper than a question about taxes. If the coin belongs to Caesar because it bears Caesar's image, what belongs to God because it bears God's image? We do.

That connection would not have been lost on people who knew the Scriptures. Genesis tells us that God created the human person in his image and likeness. Beneath Jesus' question about the coin lies a much larger question. Caesar may put his image on a coin, but God has put his image on you. God does not simply want his share of our lives. Our whole life already comes from him.

Seen in that light, the first reading takes on a deeper meaning. Isaiah speaks about Cyrus, the powerful king of Persia (cf. Isaiah 45:1, 4-6). Though Cyrus did not worship the God of Israel, God used him to bring his people home from exile and even calls him his "anointed": "I have called you by your name… though you knew me not." Cyrus may command an empire without knowing God, but God knows Cyrus and has a purpose for him. Caesar has his coins. Cyrus has his empire. But neither is God.

Saint Paul brings all of this down to the level of daily Christian life (cf. 1 Thessalonians 1:1-5b). He praises the Thessalonians for their "work of faith, labor of love and endurance in hope." Faith works. Love labors. Hope endures. If we belong to God, it should show in the way we live.

This brings me back to those spiccioli in Rome. Years ago, I learned to pay attention to the coins in my pocket. This Sunday, Jesus asks us to look at something infinitely more valuable: our own lives. He does not ask how much the coin is worth. He asks whose image it bears. Perhaps that is the question for us today: If someone looked at the way I am living my life, would they know whose image I bear?

Make no mistake, brothers and sisters, what we place in the collection basket matters! Generosity is one very real way of acknowledging that what we have is not ours alone. I believe, however, that Jesus takes us further. He actually asks not only for what passes through our hands, but for the person who holds it.

The coin bears Caesar's image. Let Caesar have his coin. You bear the image of God. Give him what is already his.

Last Sunday at our 11:00 AM Mass, I found it deeply inspiring to see members of our Youth Group stand before the Altar and say, in their own way, "I belong to Christ." That is my hope for all of us, young and old: that the image we bear will become more visible in the way we live, and that others may recognize in us the One to whom we belong.

May God bless you and your family,

Msgr. "John" Cuong M. Pham

DEL CORAZON DEL PÁRROCO

¿QUÉ IMAGEN LLEVAS?

XXIX Domingo del Tiempo Ordinario – Año A • Mateo 22:15–21

Queridos hermanos y hermanas en Cristo,

Cuando era un joven sacerdote, después de mi primera asignación aquí en la Diócesis, fui enviado a Roma para continuar mis estudios. De repente, tuve que aprender un nuevo idioma, una nueva cultura y una nueva manera de hacer casi todo. Una palabra italiana que aprendí muy pronto fue spiccioli: el cambio, las monedas que uno lleva en el bolsillo.

Aquí en Estados Unidos, casi nunca pienso en esas monedas. En Italia, especialmente en aquellos años, los spiccioli eran muy importantes. ¡Hacían falta para todo! Si uno pagaba una compra pequeña con un billete grande, el comerciante podía mirarlo como si hubiera cometido una grave ofensa contra la República Italiana. "Non ha spiccioli?" —"¿No tiene cambio?"—. Muy pronto aprendí: nunca hay que subestimar los spiccioli.

Claro que hay un lugar donde no me molestaría que fuéramos más allá de los spiccioli: ¡la colecta del domingo! La moneda o el billete más pequeño que llevamos en el bolsillo no debería ser siempre nuestra primera opción. Después de todo, nuestra generosidad también revela qué valoramos y a quién valoramos.

Ese recuerdo me hace notar algo en el Evangelio de este domingo: Jesús pide una moneda (cfr. Mateo 22, 15-21). Sus enemigos le hacen una pregunta peligrosa: "¿Es lícito pagar el impuesto al César o no?" Si dice que sí, parece apoyar la ocupación romana; si dice que no, pueden acusarlo de rebelión. Es una trampa muy bien preparada.

Jesús mira la moneda y pregunta: "¿De quién es esta imagen y esta inscripción?" "Del César", responden. Jesús les dice: "Den al César lo que es del César, y a Dios lo que es de Dios". Su respuesta va mucho más allá de los impuestos. Si la moneda pertenece al César porque lleva su imagen, ¿qué le pertenece a Dios porque lleva la imagen de Dios? Nosotros.

El Génesis nos dice que Dios creó al ser humano a su imagen y semejanza. Detrás de la pregunta sobre la moneda hay otra mucho más profunda. El César pone su imagen en una moneda, pero Dios ha puesto su imagen en ti.

En otras palabras, Dios no quiere simplemente una parte de nuestra vida. Nuestra vida entera viene de Él.

A la luz de esto, entendemos mejor la primera lectura. Isaías habla de Ciro, el poderoso rey de Persia (cfr. Isaías 45, 1. 4-6). Aunque Ciro no adoraba al Dios de Israel, Dios se sirvió de él para hacer regresar a su pueblo del exilio, e incluso lo llama su "ungido": "Te llamé por tu nombre… aunque tú no me conocías". Ciro gobierna un imperio sin conocer a Dios, pero Dios lo conoce y tiene un propósito para él. El César tiene sus monedas. Ciro tiene su imperio. Pero ninguno de ellos es Dios.

San Pablo lleva todo esto a nuestra vida cristiana de cada día (cfr. 1 Tesalonicenses 1, 1-5b). Elogia a los tesalonicenses por "las obras de su fe, los trabajos de su amor y la perseverancia de su esperanza". La fe actúa. El amor trabaja. La esperanza persevera. Si pertenecemos a Dios, debe notarse en nuestra manera de vivir.

Esto me lleva de nuevo a aquellos spiccioli de Roma. Hace años aprendí a prestar atención a las monedas de mi bolsillo. Este domingo, Jesús nos invita a mirar algo infinitamente más valioso: nuestra propia vida. No pregunta cuánto vale la moneda. Pregunta qué imagen lleva. Tal vez esa sea la pregunta que debemos llevarnos a casa: Si alguien mirara cómo estoy viviendo, ¿podría reconocer la imagen de Dios en mí?

Que quede claro, hermanos y hermanas: ¡lo que ponemos en la colecta sí importa! La generosidad es una manera concreta de reconocer que lo que tenemos no es solamente nuestro. Pero Jesús nos lleva más lejos. Dios no pide solamente lo que pasa por nuestras manos; nos pide a nosotros mismos.

La moneda lleva la imagen del César. Que el César se quede con su moneda. Tú llevas la imagen de Dios. Dale lo que ya le pertenece.

Que Dios los bendiga a ustedes y a sus familias.

Mons. "Juan" Cuong M. Pham
